What is the best advice you have ever received?

I've been given so much great advice over the course of my life that it's hard to choose which has been the most valuable. Two things that I try to live by everyday are to have a contagious attitude and to treat people fairly. Being in a leadership role you have to encourage, motivate and try to create a positive environment every day. No matter what is going on in my life I try to make my attitude worth catching. Secondly, my grandfather was a firm believer in the golden rule. He always taught us that if we treated people fairly it would benefit everyone.

What does home mean to you?

To me, home is a place that gives you a feeling that's different from any other. It's a combination of happiness, relief, comfort and excitement. Family is the main trigger for me. When I pull into Greenville, either of my grandparents' driveways, or even when I'm on family vacation I have this feeling. Home isn't a specific place for me, it's where my family is.

What was your "ah-ha" moment?

At a family gathering after my Grandfather, passed away, a reporter asked my younger cousin, Dan, if he planned on going into the real estate business. He nonchalantly replied, "Yeah, probably". The effortlessness in his response was exciting to me. I had always wanted to be in the family business, and at that moment I thought to myself, "How great would it be to continue this tradition that "Pop", my dad and uncle had built with my family?" I'll never forget that night.

What was your first job, and how did you get it?

I was a substitute lifeguard in high school. I needed something that I could balance with summer sports training. I worked at Dove Tree, Greenville Country Club and Gower Pools. It was a great summer job. I was able to work outside, hang out with friends and get paid a little bit of money all at the same time. I worked with several people I still keep in touch with today. It was a great way to meet new people in different areas of Greenville.

What is your company's mission statement?

C. Dan Joyner Property Management Co. is committed to servicing our clients with respect. We take pride in the work that we do and have been doing for over 20 years. As the times have changed so has our focus to the idea that our service is the value added item that draws renters, owners and home owner associations. Being partnered with Greenville's largest real estate firm gives us options that other property management firms would find hard to match.
